Arrowwood District School Fair on Sept. 25 and 26

A Word to the Children:

There is nothing like the satisfaction of a job well done. Maybe you have been working in your garden raising flowers and vegetables. Perhaps you have been helping mother in the kitchen, or your hands have been busy all the summer with needle and thread. Or if you are a boy you have probably spent most of your leisure time with saw, hammer and nails. And of course all of you must have done some very fine work in school last year. It's only a few short weeks now till the School Fair and then we shall see the result of all the work you have been doing. It will be interesting to note who will be the fortunate boys and girls who will have those coloured cardboard slips attached to their work showing that they have won a prize. Last year there were close to 1100 exhibits, but this year you have had more time to prepare and we hope to see many more. Gather up all those things you haven't quite finished yet, buckle down to work and have everything in tip top shape for the School Fair - only three weeks to go. By the way, has your teacher said anything to you about your part in the School Fair Parade? If she hasn't remind her about it tomorrow morning, because you all want to be in on it, don't you?

And a Word to the Older Folk

A feature of this year's Fair will be the auctioning of all the vegetable exhibits at the close. There will be some very fine samples of prize-winning, home-grown vegetables for sale, and it will be well worth your while to do your Saturday shopping at the auction.

The next meeting of the committee will be held at the Arrowwood School, Tuesday September 8, at 8.00 p.m. As many of the final details as possible must be settled at this meeting. It is hoped that everyone will make every possible effort to attend.

Artificial Respiration

The following information is issued by the Alberta Department of Public Health.

In the past five years 275 persons have met death by accident at drowning in Alberta. Perhaps some of these lives could have been saved had artificial respiration been applied immediately after the individual was taken from the water.

As soon as the apparently drowned person is taken from the water he should be laid face downward with the head lower than the legs. The arms should be fully extended parallel to the head which should face to one side. The head may rest on an arm.

The rescuer then stands astride the patient facing the patient's head. With both hands lift the patients three or four times to expel all the water possible. (Placing the patient on his abdomen over a barrel or log is a substitute for this manoeuvre.)

With a finger wrapped in a piece of cloth wipe out all foreign matter from the mouth.

Pull the patient's tongue forward with fingers or forceps. If an assistant is present have him kept the tongue forward.

With the patient still in the position outlined above, kneel astride him with your knees opposite his hip bones.

Place the palms of your hands on the small of the patients back with your fingers resting on his ribs. The little fingers should just touch the lower rib and the tips of your fingers should be directed downwards and be just out of sight.

With your arms held straight swing forward slowly so that the full weight of your body is brought to bear gradually on the patients. Your shoulders should be directly over the heel of your hand at the end of the forward swing. Do not bend your elbow. This manoeuvre should be done while you count "two".

Swing backwards so as to completely remove your weight from your arms but do not remove your hands from their position. Count "two". Swing slowly forward again and repeat the manoeuvre as above. The manoeuvre should take four seconds; fifteen such manoeuvres to the minute, closely approximate the normal rate of inspiration and expiration.

Continue artificial respiration until natural breathing is restored, if necessary four or five hours, or, until a physician declares that the patient is dead.

When the patient revives he should be kept at rest in order that no extra burden may be placed on the heart. Keep the patient warm if possible but do not lose valuable time in trying to get the patient to shelter.

MEANEST MAN

The one who put cement in his wife's beauty clay to save himself a howling-out when he arrived home in the early morning hours.

Said the chambermaid to the sleeping guest.

"Get up you lazy sinner, 'We need the sheet for a tablecloth, 'There's company for dinner."

Harvey Mitchell

THE chairman of the provincial committee for New Brunswick of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, Regina, 1932, is Mr. Harvey Mitchell, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. Mitchell was born at Keswick Ridge, N.B., in 1871, and received his preliminary education in the public schools of that district. Later he went to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

For fourteen years he was engaged in field work for the Department of Agriculture of New Brunswick and for twelve years, maritime representative of the dairy division of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

In 1921 Mr. Mitchell was appointed Deputy Minister of Agriculture for New Brunswick.

Babson Predicts General Business Will Improve

By Babson

The Babsonchart, which has accurately forecast periods of prosperity and depression for the past thirty years, now indicates that the depression is well over half completed. The worst is over. All we need is patience, hard work, and common sense in business and government to see us safely through to another great period of prosperity. This does not mean that we shall have an abrupt and interrupted rise in general business, because there are still factors to be adjusted.

Europe is by no means out of the woods and this still constitutes a serious influence. Notwithstanding Europe, however, I look for a slow, irregular, upward trend for domestic business.

The business readjustment in Canada is progressing rapidly. Judging by fundamental statistics of production, transportation, distribution, and finance the worst has apparently been seen.

The two chief deterrent factors now are: the crop failure in a part of the western provinces, and 2, the reduced foreign trade resulting from world depression.

Measures of relief for agriculture in the west will doubtless be undertaken by the provincial governments and the dominion government. While perhaps affording temporary relief such measures will not effect a permanent cure. Only world recovery of farm prices can set the farmers back on their feet. The final outcome of the European economic and financial negotiations will, therefore, mean much to Canadian agriculture and industry.

The reason that I feel better about the business situation than I have for the past two years is that the ground work for improvement has been well laid by prolonged deflation.

Here is the set of conditions which substitutes this belief. First; consumption has been running above production for many months, creating a real need for goods. Second; inventories of finished products have been drawn down to the lowest point in several years. Third; the general price level is now the most attractive to purchasers in twenty years. Thoroughgoing liquidation of commodities always precedes the start of a sound business recovery. Fourth; money is plentiful, and rates are the lowest in history. This affords the basis for commercial and financial expansion on a major scale. Fifth; stock prices are scaled down more in line with real values, although further weak spots may be uncovered and prices will be swayed back and forth by sentiment. Sixth; the underlying trend of the bond market is upward, and rising bond prices are always an early indication of returning prosperity. Seventh and most important of all, we have learned, in the past two years of hardship, how to work, save, and produce. We have squeezed much of the inflation out of our personal living. We have come to realize that the spiritual values of integrity, industry, thrift, and service, count for something after all. Every great period of prosperity has started on just such foundations.

The Guy Who Stubbed His Toe

Did you ever meet a youngster who had been and stubbed his toe,

An' was sittin' by the roadside, just a cryin' soft and low, A-holdin' of his dusty foot, so hard and brown and bare,

Tryin' to keep from his eyes the tears a-gatherin' there?

You hear him sort o' sobbin' like an' sniffin' of his nose, You stop and pat him on the head an' try to ease his woes,

You treat him sort o' kind like, an' the first thing that you know,

He's up and off a-smilin'—clean forgot he's stubbed his toe.

Now along the road of life you'll find a fellow goin' slow,

An' like as not he's some poor cuss who's been and stubbed his toe.

He was makin' swimmin' head way till he bumped into a stone

And his friends kept hurrying onward an' left him there alone,

He's not sobbin', he's not sniffin' he's too old for cries,

But he's grievin', just as earnest if it only comes in sighs.

An' it does a lot of good sometimes to go a little slow

An' speak a word o' comfort to the guy who's stubbed his toe.

You know, you're yourself, an' the way to know

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Arrowwood W.I.

The members of the Arrowwood W.I. were entertained by their President, Mrs. Neal McCollman, on Tuesday, Sept. 1st, in their regular monthly meeting. Roll call, "A good place to spend my next vacation," was answered by thirteen members and one visitor. A general discussion of the Institute helping to put music in the Arrowwood Consolidated School took place, the matter being tabled until further developments would justify some action.

Routine business was followed by a paper on "Citizenship" Mrs. Matt Leonard, convenor of Canadianization.

An entertaining contest closed the afternoon's program. The hostess served a delicious lunch.

Wheat Pool to Establish Selling Agency

Establishing of a provincial selling agency, which would operate a seat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange for selling hedging purposes on recognized methods, was announced officially by the Alberta Wheat Pool. The agency will handle sales of the 1931 Alberta crop and is now in operation. The selling department will be an integral part of the Alberta Wheat Pool, under R. D. Purdy, general manager of the Pool. The selling department will operate independently of the Central Selling Agency, which in the past has had charge of disposing of all Prairie wheat. The Central Selling Agency will continue to operate under the direction of John I. McFarland until the 1930 crop is sold entirely. "The change simply means this," said Mr. Purdy. "We will sell the grain delivered to pool elevators instead of having the Central Selling Agency make sales for us."

School Reopened Last Tuesday

School opened on Tuesday with a very good attendance and all the teachers on hand. Ten little tots put in their appearance for the first time. Owing to the unavoidable delay in ordering books progress is being held up, but next week will see pupils following steady routine work.

"Rufus, did you go to your lodge meeting last night?" "Nah, suh. We dun have to postpone it."

"De Gran' All-Powerful Invincible Most Supreme Unconquerable Potentate dun got beat up by his wife."

Just when it's comin' your time to slip and stub your toe, Today, you're bright and happy an' world's Sunlight and Glow An' tomorrow you're a-freezin' an' trugin' thru the snow. The time you think you've got the world the tightest in your grip,

Is the very time you'll find that you're the likeliest to slip, So it does a lot o' good sometimes to go a little slow, An' speak a word o' comfort to the guy who's stubbed his toe,

Why Not?

In a most convincing manner a Toronto minister showed that the Russian Revolt was one of three such movements within this last half a millennium of human history. The Reformation with all its parallel enthusiasms for learning, exploration, etc., was at heart a struggle for individual freedom in religion. The French Revolution was also accompanied by other contemporary activities yet its real struggle was for man's political freedom. And whatever we may think of the methods used or the theories propounded Russia aimed at man's economic freedom.

It was during the political days of Sir John Thompson that the first Monday in September was declared a legal holiday, and to be exact, the first Canadian Labor Day was in 1894. Each year since, banks and other institutions as well as labor organizations have observed it. But never since its inception has it found the Canadian people in such economic jeopardy. This year we might do well to lay special emphasis upon those ideas and ideals which created that first

The gauge of the value of an industry from the standpoint of national economy is its net production. On this basis, according to the Canada Year Book, 1930, agriculture leads Canadian industries with 38.1 per cent; manufacturers come second, providing 32.1 per cent of the total value of net production; while the remainder is divided between seven industrial groups comprising forestry, fisheries, trapping, mining, electric power, construction custom and repair. Agriculture despite hard times is easily holding its own and it is interesting to observe that the latest available figures show Canada's population almost evenly divided between urban and rural

THE late Canon Davidson was well and favorably known in many parts of Canada, especially in the West, not only as a great churchman, but also, as an instructive and entertaining lecturer. During one of his lectures, to illustrate one of his points, he told the following story:

Tim MacBey (fictitious, of course), a merchant in a small town in the West, had a voracious appetite. He was invited to represent the local Board of Trade at a banquet in Regina, and when the evening arrived Tim was the first to take a seat. Some of the help left a small yellow cake of soap on the table near where Tim sat. Thinking at first that it was a piece of cheese he gobbled it down. In a few minutes he turned to the genial Canon, who by this time had taken a seat beside him.

"Say, Canon," said he, "I've eaten a piece of soap. Should I see a doctor?"

"No, Tim," came the reply, "I don't think it's necessary. There will be no serious results other than that in future you'll be blowing bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air."

"That's O.K. then with me," answered Tim, "I've been doing just about that all my life—chasing something with nothing in it."

How often is it too true that many of us waste energy doing either one or the other—blowing pretty bubbles or chasing them? We dream of the things we'd like to possess but we do nothing substantial to secure them. So far as we are concerned they are merely bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air.

The merchant dreams of a large and successful business but he exerts scarcely sufficient energy to spear a dollar when it voluntarily passes his way. The lawyer sees himself pleading a great case before the supreme court when he is too lazy to prepare the material to present to a country Justice of the Peace; and so with a lot of others.

One of the winners of the world championship for wheat said that hundreds of farmers had just as good grain in their granaries as that with which he won the title of "World's Wheat King." "Their trouble," said he, "is that they lack the energy and sticktoitiveness to make a selection, prepare the sample and make entry." It is to be hoped, however, for the sake of Canada's reputation, that too many crop producers will not merely blow bubbles nor chase them in their attitude towards the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina in 1932. Quite true the cash prizes are more numerous and much larger than have been offered ever before anywhere in the world. Competition, too, is open to the whole world. But there are over 1,700 of these awards and since the '32 undertaking is an all-Canadian undertaking, farmers in every part of the Dominion—all of them—should cut out the bubble blowing and bubble chasing, get down to business and make a real effort to win the share that Canadian grain and seed merits.

It's a funny world, though. I suppose without the bubble chasers it wouldn't be just right. Somebody will always sing:

"I'm forever blowing bubbles—pretty bubbles in the air;
They fly so high, nearly reach the sky;
Then like my dreams they fade and die.
Fortune's always hiding. I've looked everywhere.
I'm forever blowing bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air."

WAGIN' TUNG

Vol. 1, No. 3 Arrowwood, Sept. 3, 1931 Items for Thor

Let Us All Pull Together

We are faced with one of the most trying times in the history of our country and it behooves us all to practice strict economy, but knowing the resources of our famous Arrowwood wheat lands and having confidence in our people, we believe the recovery will be speedy and certain. In the meantime let us keep our powder dry so that we will be ready to make this a bigger and better Arrowwood and vicinity when conditions improve.

As the threshing season is getting under way, we will be glad to wait upon you for your threshing needs along our lines, such as fuel, oils, greases, belts, etc.

We now have a high testing tractor Distillate which is giving utmost satisfaction for 13c per gallon. You don't need gasoline for starting as it works equally as well in a cold motor.

When it comes to lubricating oils, don't forget that British America "Autolenes" will compare with the best of them—or if it's an oil with quality, cheap in price, that you need, we have it in our "Motorenes."

A motorist had just crashed a telephone pole. Wire, pole and everything came down around his ears. They found him unconscious in the wreckage, but as they were untangling him he reached out feebly, fingered the wires and murmured: "Thank heaven, I lived clean—they've given me a harp."

Leaving all jokes aside we will have to give this week's prize to the Scotchman who sent the surgeon's bill to his father-in-law when he learned that his wife's tonsils really should have been taken out when she was a little girl.

Buy a drum of Autolene Motor Oil for your tractor and receive FREE a five gallon "Pour Easy" drum, filled with a grade of Autolene oil suitable for your car at drum price.

For that last time over your summerfallow this fall you may need a weed-eater cultivator. We have them both for you. A weed killed in time saves nine hundred and ninety-nine.
